FOUR BUNGALOWS ARE DESTROYED IN PARKLAND COLONY

Fire Loss on Buildings and Contents Placed At $7,000.00

COLD HAMPERS WORK

Other Structures and Home of Senator Buckman Are Threatened

PARKLAND, Nov. 30.—Four bungalows here are a mass of smouldering ruins as the result of a fire which was discovered in the bungalow colony early this morning. The loss is estimated to total $7,000 on buildings and contents.

The blaze was first discovered in one of a group of bungalows owned by John Bambach, Germantown, Philadelphia. Firemen were called from Langhorne, South Langhorne and Hulmeville, but due to the scarcity of water they were unable to stop the flames before four buildings had been destroyed. Five others which were nearby and in the path of the flames were saved by the hardest kind of work on the part of the fire fighters.

The fire was discovered at about 5:30 and there was a stiff wind blowing and the thermometer stood at about six above zero. The firemen suffered from the cold and had to work under much difficulty due to the wind which fanned the flames as they leaped from bungalow to bungalow.

Burning embers were carried toward the residence and barn of State Senator Clarence J. Buckman, which is located about 500 yards from the scene of the fire. Firemen protected the Buckman building and were ready to go into immediate action had danger threatened.

No idea as to the origin of the blaze was obtained. The buildings had been closed for the winter.

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., Nov. 30.—Miss Eloise Katherine Larson, niece of Governor Morgan F. Larson, of New Jersey, was married late yesterday afternoon to William E. Millman, of Washington Crossing, N. J. The wedding took place at "The Presbyterian Manse."

Making no other comment than "keep it out of the papers," the couple drove away in their car after the ceremony, headed in the direction of Trenton, but would not reveal their destination.

Millman took out a license in the Bucks County Court House shortly after 3 o'clock and they were married within a half hour by the Rev. George M. Whittemore, Jr., pastor of the Doylestown Presbyterian Church.

They were attended only by a young couple who would not give their names.

"What does the Lord thy God require of thee but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all His ways, and to love Him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul. To keep the commandments of the Lord, and His statutes, which I command thee this day, for thy good." —(Deut. 10:12, 13).

Have you ever stopped to think just what privileges and advantages are accorded us in our daily life and just what we are doing in return for all these benefits? Have you ever stopped to think that we may not be living up to our part of the contract? Divine Providence has defined certain things which we must do in order to enjoy a happy and successful life and not interfere with the life of our fellowmen. These principles are simple, but sometimes hard to follow without being bolstered up on many occasions. The principles of life have been revealed to us through the Bible and the church has been established as the means of helping us to follow the instructions which have been given.

The church is the one avenue through which the principles of Christianity are spread throughout the world, and through which we may be guided and helped in our travel through life. Its doors are never closed.

Dr. Charles C. Benjamin, of the M. E. Church in Somerton, will be the speaker at the evening service in Harriman M. E. Church to administer the sacrament of the Lord's Supper. All who love the Lord Jesus Christ as their Saviour are invited to meet in this fellowship. "This should be a service that should mean a reconciliation of ourselves to the Master and the work to which he has called us in this part of His Vineyard," says the pastor, Rev. Gilbert Duck.

"The Shepherd King" is the subject of the pastor's sermon for the morning service.

The young people are showing an interest in the Epworth League. Although the young folks in the church are limited for space and room in which they may practice basketball they are determined to give a good account of themselves in the basketball league of the Bristol Group.

RECOGNIZING THE SOVIET

Diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Soviet Russia are on the point of being resumed after two years of severance. They were broken by a Tory government and are being restored by a liberal Labor government.

The real reason for England's breaking diplomatic relations with Moscow is conjectural to all except the few who dictated government policies in London in 1927. The official reason, that is the one given for public consumption, was that the soviet government had plotted against the British government by spreading revolutionary and communistic propaganda on English soil. This explanation is interpreted by many Englishmen to mean that the Tory government, fighting frantically to remain in power, resurrected the worn-out post-war "red" scare to destroy public confidence in the Labor party at home.

The British house of commons did not vote to recognize the Russian government because it is in sympathy with the soviet experiment in government. England wants to regain the business it lost when it sent its last Russian ambassador home.

Perhaps general recognition of the Russian government is the best way out of what is universally conceded an annoying if not very serious situation. After all, nations that would reform the Russians politically cannot accomplish their mission through isolation. Ambassadors are the missionaries of international politics, at least in theory.

A NATIONAL LOSS

Through the death of James W. Good, secretary of war, the nation lost a valuable public servant and the Hoover administration an invaluable adviser. The United States has not so many men like the late cabinet officer that it could well spare him.

Iowa has lost a distinguished citizen, who brought honor to his state by exemplary public service and by contributing largely to the national well-being.

Secretary Good's long experience as chairman of the house committee on appropriations and his usefulness while in congress in special committee work on the budget marked him as a man of most unusual public value in the financial department of the national administration. This experience alone made him exceptional cabinet timber and almost indispensable to the chief executive.

The Iowan was liberal, tolerant, peace-loving and, above all else, human. In any public capacity he was a safety valve.

Throughout his public career, he was fortified by an abiding faith in the good sense of the great American majority. His was the sound creed that a well-informed public opinion can always be depended upon to do the right thing, and he considered it his duty to see that the public was informed.

The problem of man's descent is to make it an ascent.

Mrs. Yeamans and Mrs. Mauger Tendered Farewell

Monday evening, Mrs. Charles Yeamans and Mrs. Samuel Mauger, of Otter street, were surprised by a few of their friends and neighbors, before leaving for Washington, D. C., where they will remain during the winter months.

Miss Anna Schaffer, of Bath street, called on them early in the evening, so as to keep Mrs. Yeamans and Mrs. Mauger at home. Upon her arrival, Miss Schaffer found Mrs. Mauger was quite busy painting. Just as Mrs. Mauger completed her work a knock came at the door, and as she opened it, in came nineteen friends. Both Mrs. Mauger and Mrs. Yeamans were greatly surprised.

Those who enjoyed this delightful affair were:

Mrs. Edward Townsend, Mrs. Jacob Schmidt, Sr., Mrs. E. Hetherington, Mrs. Sue Young, Mrs. Jessie Bromley, Mrs. John Ennis, Mrs. William Stetson, Mrs. Charles Velt, Mrs. William Holt, Miss Kate Dugan, Miss Hattie Randall, Miss Margaret Keating, Miss Laura Pope, Miss May Smoyer, Miss Margaret Smoyer, Miss Mary Doyle, Miss Helen Doyle, Miss Mary King and Miss Anna Schaffer.

Before departing for their homes, the guests wished Mrs. Yeamans and Mrs. Mauger a safe and pleasant trip to Washington.

Boy Scout Campaign Workers to Meet Here

Bristol will be host Monday night at a dinner in the Odd Fellows' Home at 6:30, which will be attended by about 60 workers from Area "A," Lower Bucks County, including Tullytown, Andalusia, Croydon, Cornwells, Eddington, Bridgewater and Newportville. Walter F. Leedom will preside.

A half dozen men will be present from Tullytown, under the leadership of Lester Shoemaker, chairman of Section 1.

The Bristol delegation of 36 workers will be headed by Emil Metzger, chairman of Section 2, while the Section 3 contingent will be reported by Richard W. Fehrenberg, of Eddington, together with committee consisting of John M. Whyte, L. L. Williams and C. B. White.

The purpose of the dinner is to open the intensive period of the Boy Scout Campaign in the Lower Bucks area.

The goal of the county wide campaign is $53,000, of which Area "A" is asked to provide $21,550.

Current Events Theme Of Travel Club Members

 the purchase of the camp for use of future presidents. Mrs. Harry Headley's topic dealt with the transfer of surface rights of lands in the western states to the states by the government, said lands to be used as a means of support for the public schools.

The Boulder Dam Problem was dwelt upon by Mrs. Emil Metzger, while Miss Marian Smith read a most instructive and enlightening article relative to the manner in which raw silk is transported from the Orient to the Occident in the most speedy manner. Before the ships dock on the Pacific coast of the United States trains are in readiness to make all speed in unloading the precious cargo. The fastest ocean liners and speediest trains are used. The trains run against time, according to the article given yesterday afternoon, and all other traffic makes way for the silk special.

Mrs. George E. Boswell took up the question of child welfare work, and the nine points of discussion over the tariff bill were read by Miss Jane Rogers.

Mrs. Smith referred to the conferences of the past few days conducted by President Hoover with the business men of the country. Mrs. Parke Weatherill told of an experiment being made in a Newark, N. J., school, less time being given to formal grammar and the like, with more time being spent upon the sciences. Mrs. Bradley Andrew's topic was relative to a new kind of university conducted in the West, where in the evening the students, old and young, gather out of doors, hearing lectures upon a variety of subjects. References to the latest developments in the Byrd expedition closed the program for the day.

The hostesses of the afternoon were Mrs. H. A. Jensenius, and Mrs. Fred Leibfreid, Jr.
